Building Resilient School Communities

Professional Development and Resources

At Ducks and Lions, we provide educators the tools they need to build resilient students, prioritize self-care, and create equitable and trauma-focused classrooms. We offer engaging research-based training and consultation. Every school and school district has their own strengths and unique culture. We can customize our single and multi-day trainings to build on your strengths and culture. Our goal is to give YOU the tools you need to build resilient school communities.

About Dr. Melissa Sadin

Dr. Sadin has served as a special education teacher, a gifted education teacher, and a building administrator. Most recently she served as a director of special education. Dr.
